General Recycling Tips

Easy ways to improve your recycling and reduce waste in your home

-  This is a recycling symbol. It is applied to packaging collected by 75% or more of UK local authorities and then sorted, processed and recycled into new packaging or products.
-  This is not a recycling symbol. 'The Green Dot' is used on packaging when its producer helps to fund the recycling of packaging in Europe.
- ✓ Textiles can be donated to clothing banks or charity shops to be reused or recycled. Did you know? £140m worth is binned every year in the UK – equating to around 350,000 tonnes!
- ✓ Need more room for your recycling? Order some free recycling sacks to leave out with your blue bin or an extra bin online at www.fenland.gov.uk/bluebin
- ✗ Soft plastics, such as carrier bags, crisp packets and flexible film lids, can't be recycled in your blue bin – but they can at many supermarkets! Look out for soft plastic recycling points.
- ✗ Never bin vapes or batteries as they can cause fires! This includes batteries in mobiles and laptops, as well as standard household batteries.
